About ESA

Established in 1948, the Electronic Security Association (ESA) is the largest trade association representing the electronic security and life safety industry. Member companies install, integrate and monitor intrusion and fire detection, video surveillance and electronic access control systems for commercial, residential, industrial and governmental clients. In cooperation with an alliance of chapter associations, ESA provides technical and management training, government advocacy and delivers information, advice, tools, and services that members use to grow their businesses and prosper.

Once again the ESA provides us with the ability to engage with dealers, which allows us to focus on delivering the products and services that they need to be successful.

ESA is a real asset to not only the industry as a whole, but also to companies that are looking to service or sell into the security industry. ”

Mark Hillenburg
VP of Industry Relations at DMP

An investment in ESA is an investment in the electronic security, life safety and integrated systems channel. As the longest standing and largest non-profit trade association serving the market, we are the voice of our members. All sponsorship profits are funneled back into the industry for education, workforce development, public relations and more.

Fast, Faithful Learners

"You have to teach them, but it doesn't take long. I've got two dogs in my lab that can drive a robot in a maze," says Jackson. "Dogs are way more intelligent than a lot of people think, because they've just never tried to train them. But with proper training methods, it works."

To test whether dogs could activate wearables, the dogs in one FIDO project study were trained to use simple interfaces attached to their vests that required a bite, tug or poke with their nose. These interfaces activated simple Arduino circuit boards equipped with an SD card to record the animals' interactions with the device. In one study, 11 different breeds - each with different backgrounds and levels of training - participated in testing the different interfaces.

The rigorous tests showed researchers surprising results: a wide variety of dogs can be trained quickly to use interface devices never seen before.

"The longest it took to train any of the sensors was 27 minutes, the shortest was 27 seconds, so that's compelling," says Jackson. "The

Michael Zydor

Managing Director of Affiliated Monitoring

"As a sponsor of ESX 2024, we were thoroughly impressed with the quality of decision makers on the expo floor that provided us with access to key industry leaders. The focused and intimate environment of ESX allowed us to engage in meaningful conversations, fostering connections that exceeded our expectations, and we are confident that the relationships and insights gained at ESX 2024 will drive significant progress for our company. We look forward to participating again at ESX 2025."

Mark Hillenburg

Vice President of Industry Relations at DMP - Digital Monitoring Products

"The ESX show is really the highlight of the summer for the security industry. It is the best of both worlds, it feels like a big industry tradeshow at times, but delivers the value and best practice sharing of a smaller industry event. It is really an event that allows us to have meaningful longer conversations with key customers and prospects alike. If you are a dealer or integrator that is interested in RMR you need to be at ESX!"

Jake Voll

SS&SI

"ESX was incredible! Since we were able to meet with actual decision makers, we closed more than 150K in sales on the ESX show floor. That paid for our booth and was the first time we left a tradeshow with an immediate ROI!"

Edgeworth Security Team

"ESX provided us with a comprehensive forum to explore the latest technological innovations in the security industry. The knowledge and connections we gained at ESX have been instrumental in enhancing our operations."

“ICT is proud to partner with ESA. As we continue to build our presence in North America and beyond, we strongly feel that being a part of an organization, like ESA, that nurtures and grows the security industry is of the utmost importance. Our partners tell us that the training, support, and opportunities they receive via ESA are world class. We look forward to working together as we continue to bring more unified access and intrusion solutions to integrators and customers across the USA.”

Damon Standish
President - ICT USA
